AS DESCRIBED BY AN EYE WITNESS

The St. Petersburg Outbreak of January 10.

"IT WAS A CONFUSION OF HELL."

The Slaughter was so Terrible That Whole Lakes of Blood Were Seen in the Snow—Extracts from Letters Written by a Russian Lady.

We take the following extracts, says the London Times, from letters written by a Russian lady in St. Petersburg to an English friend:

"Monday, Jan. 10-23.

"I was out yesterday the whole day and saw a lot. I was just preparing to go out when my friend A—— sent over to ask me to come over to her at once. She also wanted to go out but was afraid to drive alone. But we none of us thought that the streets would be like anything as we found them. We went in her carriage and, though our own street was quiet, as soon as we came on the Nevsky we found a most alarming sight. Heaps of people on foot and masses of soldiers on horse and on foot. The soldiers would not let us pass further than half way up the Nevsky, and then we went into a side street, where again the crowd of workmen, students and factory girls was awful. We could hardly get along, and some roughs shook their fists at us and cried: 'Oh, my fine ladies, tomorrow you won't any more ride in your carriage!' A—— got frightened and I brought her back home.

"I then put myself on a simple isvostchik and drove into the town again alone. All the bridges were held by the soldiers with pointed bayonets, and on the Nevsky the soldiers fired on the people. It was awful to hear the savage shrieks and howls of the people, above it trumpet signal to fire, and then the discharge of about thirty guns at once. Heaps of people fell killed and wounded and it was a confusion of hell. I saw with my own eyes how the mob surrounded the carriage of a much decorated general and asked him to take off his cap. As he refused one rough struck him in the face with an empty bottle, the bottle broke and the general's head was one mass of blood. They then fell over him and killed him right out. I was so impressed by this sight that when I myself got into a howling crowd by accident I shrieked 'hurrah' from sheer fright and they let me pass quietly. But heaps of women were wounded and a lot of them killed. I saw a lot of wounded horses being led away riderless and heaps of wounded people being carried away by the ambulance.

"Above all, the shrieks and yells were awful to hear, but I was too interested to go back, so I went on and saw more horrible sights. Across the Nevsky was a double row of soldiers, standing back to back, pointing their guns in both directions of the street, and alongside a row of buglers and drummers, who give the signal to fire. I got home at 6:30 o'clock, dined, and then went out again to see the R——s. In our streets round here all was quiet. I found the R——s very much alarmed and excited, and Mme. O—— said most dramatically that if they came to kill her she hoped they would kill her children, too, for what would the poor orphans do alone in the world? It is indeed harrowing, for the whole evening cannons were fired on the other side of the Neva, at Vassili Ostroff, where the riot was worst of all.

"It appears that in the morning the whole mass of workmen, led by their priest went to the winter palace to demand to see the emperor. They did not know—and hardly any one knew—that the whole imperial family had gone to Tsarskoe Selo after the ceremony on Thursday. Several regiments of soldiers were posted before the palace, and told the people to go away or they would fire. When they did not go the soldiers fired one charge in the air and the second charge right into the face of the people. Up to that moment the crowd was perfectly orderly, but when the soldiers commenced firing they became exasperated. Heaps of people were killed and the rest had to retreat. But one man remained standing, holding up the red flag, and this man was pierced by a bayonet through the stomach. On the other side of the Neva a fearful riot took place, and the artillery charged their cannons with shrapnel and shot at the people. The fight and slaughter at the end of the Nevsky was so terrible that today whole lakes of blood were still seen in the snow. Some people thought that the riot would be finished at 6 o'clock last night, but when it went on the whole night one understood that it is serious. There is no doubt that this is not only a strike, but a revolution, and no one knows how and when it will end.

GOLD FOUND NEAR WILMOT.

The Quartz Assays $5.20 a Ton by Expert Test.

FOUR HUNDRED ACRES LEASED.

The Quartz was Found by O. F. Wisner While Digging a Cellar a Month Ago—A Sample was Sent to Cripple Creek to be Assayed and a Reply was Received Thursday.

Wilmot, Feb. 24.—This place and the surrounding country was thrown into a commotion Friday when the news became current that a gravel containing gold quartz had been found on the Jacob Mentzer farm, located five miles west of Wilmot and that the quartz assayed $5.20 a ton. An investigation showed that the report was true and that a second sample of the gravel had already been sent to Cripple Creek to be assayed.

The discovery of the quartz bearing soil was made by O. F. Wisner, of Apple Creek, Wayne county, on the Jacob Minser farm about five miles west of here. A cellar was being dug about a month ago when the quartz bearing strata was discovered. A sample was taken and sent to L. A. Van Tilborg, an expert assayist at Cripple Creek, Col. His return letter and information was received Thursday afternoon. Mr. Van Tilborg said that the quartz would assay $5.20 a ton if the soil was of the same quality as the sample sent him. Mr. Wisner kept the discovery a secret during the time that he waited for an answer, having doubts of the real value of the soil discovered.

Mr. Wisner and others have already leased about four hundred acres of land in the vicinity of the place where the quartz was found. No active preparations have been made for carrying on the work and none will probably be made until some answer is received concerning the second sample sent away.

While digging for the cellar, a strata of two feet of gravel was passed through when the soil bearing the quartz was found. An investigation showed that the quartz bearing strata was eight feet deep. Other than obtaining options of four hundred acres of land nothing yet has been done.

ASSEMBLING AT MOBILE.

Organizing Filibustering Expedition Against Guatemala.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The secretary of state has called to the attention of the department of justice certain movements of bodies of men in Mobile, Ala., who are said to be engaged in a filibustering expedition against Guatemala. This action has been taken at the suggestion of the Guatemalan government, which represented that an American port was being used as a base of hostile operations against a friendly nation, and that the men, who were represented to be merely laborers going to develop railroad concession, were really part of a force recruited in the United States to initiate a revolutionary movement in Guatemala. The state department has asked the department of justice to make an inquiry, and if need be, to take the necessary steps to thwart the movement.

The relations between Guatemala and Mexico are threatened to become seriously strained, the former government being disposed to connect the revolutionary movement with Mexican activities. Mexican troops placed on the boundary between the two countries ostensibly to maintain neutrality and prevent the organization of filibustering expeditions directed against Guatemal are under suspicion of being intended to invade the smaller republic and a rapid exchange of diplomatic notes is in progress between Guatemala city and the City of Mexico.

A BATTLE IN PROGRESS.

BURGLARS IN TOWN WEDNESDAY

Entered the McClymonds and Snyder Residences.

LITTLE OF VALUE WAS TAKEN.

Mr. McClymonds' Residence was Ransacked and Burned Matches Scattered Everywhere—At Mr. Snyder's the Sudden Playing of a Music Box Sounded the Alarm.

Burglars entered the residence of J. W. McClymonds, in Prospect street, sometime Wednesday evening but beyond a few articles of flat table silver, as far as is known at present, took nothing of value. Mr. and Mrs. McClymonds and Miss Ruth McClymonds left Monday evening for Florida and the house was closed. Thursday morning the caretaker found the rooms in confusion and burnt matches everywhere. Further investigation showed that the window of the reception room, facing on Prospect street, had been forced open. As there were no footprints in the fresh snow it is evident that the house was entered before midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Arvire Wales were notified of the burglary early Thursday morning and with Chief of Police Ertle, made a careful examination. Bureau drawers and closets had been ransacked and their contents thrown about, but the silverware referred to was all that could be discovered as missing.

The same burglar was evidently busy elsewhere Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Snyder, of 349 East Main street, had gone up stairs to retire when a music box in the lower hall began to play. Knowing that there was no one in that part of the house Mr. Snyder rushed down stairs to investigate and was just in time to see a man hurriedly departing through the front door. He had entered through a side window and in the dark had run against the music box and started its mechanism. Nothing had been taken.

The burglar visited the residence of Mrs. W. B. Humberger some time during the evening. Mrs. Humberger and her daughter are out of the city and the house is unoccupied. Entrance was gained through a side window. As at the McClymonds residence, drawers and closets were thoroughly ransacked. It is not known whether anything valuable was taken.

DRUCKENBROD'S SENTENCE.

Sent to the Penitentiary for Six Years.

Canton Repository: Wilson Druckenbrod, of New Berlin, was sentenced to serve six years' imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary at hard labor but without solitary confinement by Judge Ambler, in common pleas court, Thursday afternoon. Druckenbrod was indicted for manslaughter in the killing of his wife, Mary Cora Druckenbrod, who was shot on the night of October 25, 1904. Druckenbrod pleaded guilty to the indictment several days ago. The court postponed sentence until Thursday.

When Druckenbrod stood up for sentence and the court inquired whether he had anything to say, the young man simply replied in the negative. Judge Ambler did not review the case in sentencing the prisoner. Druckenbrod could not suppress tears as sentence was imposed, but otherwise maintained outwardly a calm demeanor. He was represented by Attorney C. C. Bow while Prosecutor Day looked after the state.

OHLIGER INDICTED.

Charged With Embezzlement and Perjury.

Cleveland, Feb. 23.—The federal grand jury returned an indictment against L. P. Ohliger, president of the Wooster National bank, of Wooster. He is charged with embezzlement, abstracting the bank's funds and making false entries in the bank's books.

J. R. Zimmerman, managing director of the same bank, was indicted for aiding and abetting in the same offenses.

Ohliger was also indicted separately on a charge of perjury in having made a false oath, so it is alleged, to the report of the bank's condition, which was sent to the controller of the currency.

25c each will be given for a copy of Semi Weekly Independent of January 4, 1904, and April 28, 1904.

CHARGES OF FRAUD.

Injunction Suit Against Contractors and State Board.

Akron, Feb. 25.—An injunction suit was commenced here Friday against contractors and the state board of public works which may have the effect of defeating the improvement of the northern division of the Ohio canal and prevent securing the benefits of the $75,000 appropriation made available the early part of this year provided the contract be awarded by February 11.

George W. Carmichael & Company, of this city, who secured the contract to improve the first section of the canal, began an action in common pleas court here against the state board of public works and the contractors who secured the contract to improve subdivisions two and three of the canal. McGarry & McGowan and P. T. McCourt, secured the other two sections, on which Carmichael & Company were also the bidders.

Fraud and collusion are charged against the state board by Carmichael & Company for awarding the contracts as it was done. The plaintiff claims that its bid for the second and third sections of the canal were less than the other companies, and charges that the state board for the purpose of enabling it to award the work and labor for the other two sub-divisions unlawfully and collusively estimated the quantities of the work in respect to the items on which McCourt and McGarry & McGawon bid lower than the plaintiff, while in fact they were very much in excess of what actually was necessary for the improvement. It is also charged that the state board fixed the quantities at an amount very much less than necessary for the work, and by juggling figures and transposing quantities necessary for the other subdivisions, the state board made it appear on the face of its figures that the bids of McCourt and of McGarry and McGowan were lower than the plaintiff's while Carmichael & Company aver that for the actual quantities necessary its bid, the plaintiff's, was several thousand dollars lower than either McCourt and McGarry & McGowan. P. T. McCourt received the award for the second section for $20,067, and McGarry & McGowan for the third section for $17,443, using the quantities fixed by the board. The court is asked to restrain McCourt and McGarry & McGowan from entering into contracts, and that if the contracts have been entered into that they be restrained from beginning the work. The state board is made an equal defendant. The contract with McGarry & McGowan has already been signed.

MRS. CHADWICK'S CLAIMS.

Hopes to Save All Personal Effects Under Exemption Law.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—With the hope of saving from the wreck a large part of her personal effects, Mrs. Chadwick, through her attorney, Shelby Q. Kerruish, Friday afternoon filed her application for exemption in connection with the bankruptcy proceedings. In the document Mrs. Chadwick not only claims and "respectfully demands" all the property that can be exempted in her behalf under the state laws, but also asks that she be allowed to look over her effects and make her own choice of what she wishes to save.

She claims all wearing apparel of herself and family and household goods. She asks that the cow kept at the Euclid avenue homestead be spared to her. Other exemptions asked are all school books and family pictures, $50 worth of provisions, $50 worth of articles of household and kitchen furniture, a sewing machine, knitting machine and $100 worth of tools and implements necessary to the carrying on of her household duties.

She also hopes to retain the valuable bric-a-brac and art goods in the Chadwick home under the statute which gives her power to claim "articles of science."

CUTTING OIL PRICES.

Contest Between Standard and Ohio Oil Companies.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 25.—An oil fight is on in the New River coal fields between the Standard Oil Company and Cleveland and Ohio oil concerns. The Standard and the Ohio oil men are both seeking the miners' oil and prices are being cut lower by the opposing forces each day.

The Standard for years has had a monopoly on miners' oil in this field, selling at about 10 cents per gallon. Cleveland oil men within the past few weeks have been steadily cutting Standard prices until they are now selling as low as 24 cents per gallon.

The Standard salesmen are offering the same product at a cut on the Cleveland prices.

THE NEWS BY WIRE.

One-Fifth of Hot Springs is Destroyed by Fire.

MANY LARGE HOTELS BURNED.

International Commission Reports Adversely to Russia in North Sea Incident—If Russia Wants Peace Japan Will Meet Her Half Way.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 25.—A fire at midnight destroyed one-fifth of the area of the city, covering the southern portion. The buildings were mainly occupied by the poorer classes, and it is said a thousand were rendered homeless. The loss is estimated at over one million dollars. The fire was checked at the Methodist church. The main hotels and both the railroad stations were saved. The Hotel Moody was destroyed.

Later—The fire started in the Grand Central hotel and the Plateau hotel, Moody hotel, Garnier flats and several boarding houses were quickly destroyed. More than two thousand persons are homeless, and one hundred houses were burned. Duffy's general store, the largest in the city, is a total loss. The charred bodies of three women and two men have been found in the ruins of the Grand hotel.

JAPAN'S TERMS OF PEACE.

President Roosevelt Considers Them Very Reasonable.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Notwithstanding energetic denials, official or otherwise, it is true that, without putting herself in the attitude of suing for peace or even being desirous of peace if Russia wishes to continue the war, Japan has taken a definite step in the direction of peace, and ascertainment of all the facts proves that the advance, for such it may be called, was through this government.

Several days ago Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, called on the President and told him Japan was ready to talk of peace, provided it was desired by Russia, and indicated the terms on which negotiations might be opened. He said the chief point on which Japan would insist was the complete and permanent evacuation of Manchuria by Russia and some form of an international guarantee that it would remain an integral part of China; international management to be provided for the line of railroad running from Harbin to Port Arthur and Newchwang; recognition of Japan's influence in Korea as supreme and Port Arthur to be retained by Japan, but to be opened to all nations on an equal footing.

The subject of indemnity, which seems to have been troubling Russia the most, was not mentioned, the inference being that Japan considers that a minor question and one over which she will not haggle. Vladivostok was referred to in a way which indicated that Japan is willing that Russia retain that port and use it as the eastern terminus of the Siberian railroad.

Mr. Takahira did not wish to put Japan in the attitude of suing for peace or even suggesting it, and was particular to state that Japan is perfectly willing to continue the war, but that, if Russia was ready for peace, Japan would meet the czar half way.

The President was surprised at the moderate demands of Japan. He at once conferred with Secretary Hay and instructions were cabled to Ambassador McCormick to tell Count Lamsdorf, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, that this country had informally been told of the general terms on which Japan was ready to open peace negotiations and to state them.

THE COMMISSION REPORTS.

Russians Not Justified in Firing on Trawlers.

Paris, Feb 25.—The international commission, which has been considering the North sea incident, today submitted its report. The commission finds that the Russian admiral, Rojestvensky, was not justified in opening fire on the English trawlers. The Russians offered as an excuse for opening fire that they took the steam trawlers for Japanese torpedo boats. Japanese officials have repeatedly asserted that they had no torpedo boats within thousands of miles of the North sea. The details of the findings of the commission have not yet been made known.

It is stated that the Russian member of the commission did not share in the view that the admiral was not justified in firing. The commissioners were unanimous in the judgment that Rojestvensky was justified in continuing his voyage, but the majority regretted that the admiral did not inform neighboring maritime powers of what had occurred. The decision concludes as follows: "Commissioners declare their views as formulated are not of a nature to cause any disrepute upon the military valor nor on the sentiments of humanity of Admiral Rojestvensky and the personnel of his squadron."

THE GOLD FIND MUCH TALKED OF

Shrewd Methods of O. F. Wisner are in Evidence.

DISCOVERY WAS ACCIDENTAL.

Several Examined the Sand and Gravel in Which the Quartz was Found and Declared the Strata of Soil to be of No More Than the Worth of Clean Sand Wisner Thought Otherwise.

Wilmot, Feb. 25.—The discovery of gold bearing quartz on the Jacob Minser farm, five miles west of here, continues to be the chief topic of conversation. Many have visited the location and have examined the soil, but very little can be determined in this way of the real value of the deposit.

The first sample that was sent to the assayer at Cripple Creek was a piece of quartz. It was the reply received by O. F. Wisner, of Apple Creek, Wayne county, concerning this sample that brought the discovery to public notice. The sample assayed to the value of $5.20 a ton. Mr. Wisner was not fully satisfied with this single test and a week ago sent a sample of the sand and gravel, in which the quartz was found, to the same assayer. A reply from this sample should be received within a week or ten days.

Mr. Wilner is a traveling salesman of Apple Creek and sells buggy whips. He was called to the vicinity of the Jacob Minser farm, where the discovery was made, over a month ago to attend the funeral of a friend. While stopping at the Minser home a cellar was being dug. Mr. Wisner watched the operations as a matter of pastime for a day. On the second day, as dirt was being thrown up, he saw bright reflections in the sand and gravel. All present examined the soil and those except Mr. Wisner considered the soil of no value other than that of clean sand. Mr. Wisner asked permission to take a sample home with him. This was readily granted and he picked out a few excellent specimens and later departed for his home. It was from his home in Apple Creek that the sample was sent to the assayer. The reply came to Apple Creek some time ago. Upon the news that the quartz was of value, Mr. Wisner secured options of four hundred acres of land in the vicinity of the Minser farm.

Mr. Wisner took but a few friends into his confidence even after receiving favorable news from Cripple Creek. He leased as much land as he desired and holds the options in his own name. He has not made his plans known as to developing the deposit. He is in communication with parties with regard to the matter but is waiting for a reply as to the value of the sand and gravel if of any real worth. The whole question will be allowed to remain as it is until a reply has been received from the assayer at Cripple Creek.

The interest taken by residents of the country is keen and much speculation has been rife over the discovery since the announcement made by Mr. Wisner Thursday morning.

FUNERAL THURSDAY.

The Body of the Late Nicholas N. Peacock Expected Then.

The news has been received in the city that if the boat conveying the body of the late Nicholas L. Peacock arrives in New York on time Monday morning from San Juan, Puerto Rico, the body of the deceased will arrive in Massillon Tuesday morning at 10:28 over the Pennsylvania lines. In that event the funeral will be held from St. Timothy's church at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. E. J. Craft officiating.

It is the desire of those in charge of the services that all of the deceased's friends be made acquainted with the plans and any change made will be given full publicity.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 27 1905

It is said that the Salvation Army has not yet decided to accept the recent offer by "Abe" Bailey, a South African millionaire, of 30,000 acres of farm land in Rhodesia, 50,000 acres of pasturage and an advance of $100,000 for settlers. The Army officers show their good sense. The men who can't make a success of life in towns and cities would hardly be worth much on a farm in South Africa.

There is a lesson for hen roost robbers in the fate of the two youths of Brookfield, tried before Squire Spidle yesterday. Charles Sondregger and Cyrus Young broke into Mr. Jacob Kraft's chicken coop and stole two slumbering hens. Mr. Kraft gave chase and caught the thieves red handed. Even then, if reports are true, the matter might have been hushed up if the culprits had been wise. But they were not. They were rude—even impudent. Perhaps they said that the hens were old. Anyway Mr. Kraft, who had about decided not to prosecute, changed his mind and the young men were taken to court and fined $11 and costs each. It is not known what became of the hens.

Wilmot may not scintillate every day with news more exciting than that which concerns bobsled parties, "literaries" and quilting bees, but when it does furnish a sensation it is, in the language of the immortal Sairy Gamp, "a sensation wot is a sensation." Little did Mr. Jacob Mentzer think when he ordered a cellar dug on his farm that the gravel in which the diggers would sink their shovels contained gold quartz assaying $5.20 a ton. No wonder Wilmot is in a commotion. But there has been "gold" excitement before in Stark county, certain people who thought that the ground whereon they trod contained nuggets turned out to be full of nothing but indignant angle worms. Our neighbors at Wilmot, therefore, will probably do as Mr. Dooley advised Mr. Hennessy—keep their cuffs on and await further developments.

OHLMACHER'S STATEMENT.

Asked for Strict Investigation but was Forced Out.

Gallipolis, O., Feb. 25.—Dr. A. O. Ohlmacher has made the following public reply to the trustees' recent statement: "Barnes, with the help of an official in the First National bank in Gallipolis and the accountant in the auditor of state's office, showed that our conclusion as to his shortage in moneys from three county auditors was in error. I admitted the corrections of this showing, and my mistake. In the case of another county (Meigs) my error was only one of degree.

"I asked for a public investigation by an impartial tribunal which could summon witnesses and examine them under oath by legal talent and which could cause a thorough expert examination of all the books and records of our financial transactions. For all these reasons I prayed for an honest investigation before I was humiliated by having the steward exonerated by the board, and by being forced out of office myself."

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy, The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. FELL DISTANCE OF TWENTY FEET

William Randall was Injured Saturday Morning.

A SWINGING LADDER BROKE.

Although Landing Upon the Pavement With Great Force, Mr. Randall Did Not Receive a Broken Bone and was Only Slightly Bruised.

While William Randall and Richard Brentworth, of Cincinnati, were painting the east wall of the building in West Main street occupied by the Bloomberg Clothhing Company, the swinging ladder upon which the men were standing broke at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Both men lost their hold. They were working above a two story block, which had a peak roof. As the men landed upon this roof Randall was thrown to the north side and Brentworth to the south side.

Randall shot down the incline at a rapid rate and fell twenty feet to the pavement below, landing on the sidewalk not far from the curb. Brentworth slid on the roof a distance but managed to grab a rope used to hold up the ladder and was brought to a stop against a chimney. He was not injured in the least.

Several persons saw Randall fall from the roof. As he left the roof his head was downward, but in the fall he grabbed a wire and in so doing turned over and landed on his right side. He was picked up immediately and carried into the Bloomberg store. He was able to talk but complained of a shortness of breath. A hurried examination showed that no bones were broken. He was placed in a rocking chair and taken to a room in the Milleronian hotel and Dr. N. W. Culbertson called. A full examination revealed the remarkable fact that no bones were broken and that he had sustained but slight bruises. A part of the ladder was carried with him and this partly broke the fall. His head landed upon a large tin paint bucket and this also helped to save his life. One hour after the accident Mr. Randall was able to be propped up in bed and talked to all around him of the accident. His face was slightly cut and the skin of the right hip and arm bruised. These injuries were dressed.

The ladder was borrowed from a local tinner's establishment and was a light one. The discovery was made after the accident that the ladder had been damaged before. Randall and Brentworth are in the employ of the Morton Company, of Cincinnati, painters of art bulletins and poster work. They were painting an advertisement that covered the entire side of the building. They have been on the road for several weeks and this was the first accident on this trip, although each narrated former accidents and miraculous escapes. Saturday afternoon Randall was resting comfortably and had recovered from the shock. No serious results are feared from the accident.

ANIMAL ANTIPATHIES.

The Fear Horses Have of Camels and Cattle of Dogs.

"In some towns they won't let us show," said the circus animal trainer, "unless we have no camels with us. Camels are a serious drawback to shows. Horses are so much afraid of them that lots of towns won't let a camel enter their gates.

"A horse won't go near a piece of ground a camel has stood on. The very smell of a camel in the air will make a horse tremble and sweat, and this fear isn't only found occasionally in a horse here and there. It is found in every horse all over the world. Queer, isn't it? I often wonder why it is. Cattle hate dogs in the same way, and cats hate dogs so too. Here, though, we can account for the hatred. Dogs in primitive times fed on cattle, no doubt, and even today here and there they kill and feed on kittens.

"Horses love dogs. I'm sure I don't know why. Dogs fear no animals but pumas and leopards. You can take a dog up to a lion's or a tiger's cage, and he will show no fear, but take him up to the cage of a puma or a leopard and he will tremble and moan and slink away out of sight.

"All very puzzling, isn't it?"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

TWO GREAT LEADERS.

Disraeli and Gladstone and Their Enmity Toward Each Other.

Disraeli wit was too much for Gladstone. The great Liberal had but one adjective for his Tory opponent, and that was "devilish." Never during the years of their opposing leadership had the two any social relations. Each made light of the other's literary efforts. Some one asked Lord Beaconsfield to define the difference between a misfortune and a calamity, and unhesitatingly it came. "If Mr. Gladstone should fall into the Thames, it would be a misfortune. If any one should pull him out, it would be a calamity."

The best of all the Gladstone-Disraeli stories tells how once at a London dinner party the ladies at the table were asked which they would marry if they had to marry one or the other, the great Liberal or the great Tory. All declared promptly in favor of Beaconsfield save one, who hastened to explain that she had rather wed Gladstone that she might elope with Disraeli and so break her husband's heart. This happening was of course retold to Disraeli, and so pleased was he over it that he suspended a cabinet debate on the chances of a continental war in order to relate it.—Warwick James Price in Criterion.

THE BIG DIPPER.

It Is the Hour Hand of the Woodman's Celestial Clock.

The pole star is really the most important of the stars in our sky. It marks the north at all times. It alone is fixed in the heavens. All the other stars seem to swing around it once in twenty-four hours.

But the pole star of Polaris is not a very bright one, and it would be hard to identify but for the help of the so called pointers in the "Big Dipper," or "Great Bear." The outer rim of the dipper points nearly to Polaris, at a distance equal to three times the space that separates the two stars of the dipper's outer side. Various Indians called the pole star the "Home Star" and the "Star That Never Moves," and the dipper they call the "Broken Back." The "Great Bear" is also to be remembered as the pointers for another reason. It is the hour hand of the woodman's clock. It goes once around the North star in about twenty-four hours, the reverse way of the hands of a watch—that is, it goes the same way as the sun—and for the same reason—that it is the earth that is going and leaving them behind.—Country Life In America.

Size of the British Empire.

The British empire occupies about one fifth of the surface of the habitable globe and consists of the United Kingdom, with its attendant islands, and about forty-three dependencies under separate and independent governments varying in size from Canada, which is thirty times the size of the United Kingdom, to Gibraltar, the area of which is two square miles. Thus the area of the British empire is ninety-eight times that of the United Kingdom, while the area of the self governing colonies alone is nearly sixty times as large as that of the mother country.—London Globe.

The Courtesy of War.

In the battle of Fenghuangcheng the Japanese took among their captures two enormous Chinese vases of thirteenth century workmanship. On learning that they were a present to General Kuropatkin, General Kuroki promptly dispatched them to the Russian outposts with a polite note ending, "May the flowers of friendship blossom high in these vases." In Kuropatkin's reply he referred to the Japanese as "a people of generous friends whom I visited in peace, of magnanimous foes in war, at whose hands even defeat is no disgrace."

AN EXPENSIVE LUXURY

House Managers Opposed to Annual War Game.

UNCLE JOE CANNON IS SMOOTH.

One Secret of His Success In Running House Affairs—The Senate Knows When to Yield—"Observe the Power of Woman."

Washington, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The strong movement that was made during the last session of congress to have a number of large camp sites established in different parts of the country did not materialize during the present session, and now it is too late to expect any bill to pass. There was some little discussion at first, but those who are managing the affairs of the house indicated that this was not a good time to incur additional expenditures. Also there were other things that interfered. It was known that there were differences in the war department about these sites. The secretary of war and the chief of staff had divergent views. Besides, in congress there were contentions over the location of the sites. Four sites were not sufficient to secure support of a measure of this character, especially as a number of ambitious states had been refused a site. It has also dawned upon a great many members that these immense maneuvers of the regular army and militia have become a very expensive luxury.

Uncle Joe Is Smooth.

A member of the house, speaking of the great power which Speaker Cannon exercises, greater even that Reed or Henderson ever wielded, said that it is due to the manner in which Cannon handles members. "It is not," he said, "because men have any fear that they will not be fairly treated in the matter of committee assignments that the speaker succeeds, not that they will not receive recognition to call up bills. It is rather the way in which he reasons and argues with members. The speaker talks frankly with men who are disposed to jump the party traces and convinces them that it is not good policy to t in with the opposition. Uncle Joe has a very smooth way with him in such matters.

Knows When to Yield.

The senate knows when to yield and does so promptly when it is apparent that it should. While standing out for its prerogative in the matter of making treaties, the senate in a contest with the house in the matter of revenue legislation yields to that body the right to originate all bills affecting the revenue. It did so in adopting the treaty with Cuba for reduction of revenue. Some senators have maintained that the senate has the power to originate legislation reducing revenue, but this has been abandoned, and no effort is made by the senate to claim any power to originate any bill affecting the revenues in any way.

Supported House Prerogative.

It is an interesting fact that Senator Bacon of Georgia, a man who has never been a member of the house, is one of the staunchest and most pronounced advocates for the rights of the house to originate all revenue legislation. The Georgia senator first began the fight when the Cuban reciprocity treaty was being considered. Many senators did not agree with him, but before the Cuban treaty could be reported it contained an amendment proposed by Bacon which contained a provision that congress should first enact legislation for the proposed change in the tariff laws. Bacon is a constitutional lawyer and convinced the committee and afterward the senate that the house should not be deprived of its right to first propose a bill to change the laws affecting the tariff.

Senator Gorman's Observations.

"Observe the power of woman," remarked Senator Gorman the day the senate accepted the statue of Miss Frances Willard. "See how this woman interrupts and suspends a great legislative function. It has been so from the beginning of the world." He referred to the fact that the impeachment proceedings of Judge Swayne were cut off in order that the Frances Willard ceremonies should proceed.

Replied to Gardner.

Congress has the reputation in the departments of cutting down the appropriations for numerous little things of convenience, and Representative Gardner of Massachusetts learned that some of them keep it in mind. He was cooling his heels in the anteroom of the secretary of war recently, and while there a colored messenger stirred the fire with a common lath.

"Isn't that rather an expensive kind of poker?" asked Gardner, intending to have some fun with the messenger.

"Not so very expensive," was the reply, "but I suppose congress will cut off the appropriations for it as soon as they hear we are using it."

Wasn't Contempt.

Some of the attorneys in the Swayne impeachment case were telling stories the other day, and one related an experience in a southern court. A litigant who had a case which had been hanging fire for some time in a court composed of five judges said to the court one day:

"See here, I want that case of mine decided. I don't care which way you decide it, just so you'll decide. If you will decide I'll give you $5."

"I'll fine you for contempt," sternly remarked the chief justice, "for making such a proposition as that."

"Oh," said the man, "I didn't mean $5 for all of you. I meant I would give you $5 apiece."

THE ART OF EATING.

Food Must Please the Mind as Well as the Palate.

Pawlow has established the physiological importance of the mental state on digestion, having shown, for instance, that delicacies produce secretion of gastric juice as soon as they are perceived by the eye, even before they are eaten.

The food must not only be palatable, but must be served in an attractive manner—fine dishes, table decorations, etc.

In eating we must take time to chew our food thoroughly. This serves a double purpose—first, through the act of mastication the coarser particles of food are broken up; second, more saliva is secreted and is thoroughly mixed with the food. The digestion of starch is thus materially aided, and the proteids are made more easily accessible to the action of the gastric juice.

Water should accompany each meal. It increases the appetite and the enjoyment of food.

After eating we should rest a little while before returning to our work.—Dr. Max Einhorn in Medical Record.

A DIFFICULT PENANCE.

Irish Pilgrims to the Skellig Rocks Risk Their Lives.

Ten miles off the coast of Kerry, in the west of Ireland, lie the Skellig rocks, one of which has been for years the scene of a difficult penance. A zigzag path leads up some 700 feet to a lighthouse, but 700 feet more must be climbed before the summit is reached, where stand the ruins of St. Finian's monastery and a cross of St. Michael.

Here on the anniversary of St. Michael devotees risk their lives in performing their devotions. First they have to squeeze themselves through the Needle's Eye, a tunnel in the rock thirteen feet long, the passing up which is like the ascent of a chimney. Then they creep on all fours up the Stone of Pain, on whose smooth surface one false step is fatal; then, getting astride the Spindle, a rock 1,500 feet above the Atlantic and projecting some ten feet, each pilgrim must "ride a cock horse to St. Michael's cross," say a Paternoster and shuffle back as best he can. —Pearson's Weekly.

Marriage Proposals.

It is a bad plan for a man to ask a girl to be his wife on a very slight acquaintance and a still worse plan for her to accept him under these circumstances. If they keep their heads it is surely not a very hard thing for them to conclude to wait until they know one another a trifle better before they decide that they are the two persons out of the whole world who are best fitted to live each with the other. When they have made this perfectly clear to their own minds, and not until then, should they become engaged and announce the fact to the world at large. And when they are engaged they should understand the responsibilities of their position and not seek to evade them.—Success.

Sure of One Thing.

"The life of an insurance agent," sighed Premyums, "is full of wormwood and gall."

"I hadn't noticed the wormwood," growled the victim.—Cleveland Leader.

JAPANESE CLOSING IN

Drive Back Russian Left Wing in Manchuria by Force of Numbers.

HEAVY FIGHTING IN PROGRESS

Political Situation in Russia Growing More Serious—Agitation Has Spread to Rural Communities and Serious Consequences Are Feared.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25.—A dispatch from Sachetun dated Feb. 24 says: "The Japanese in superior numbers forced the Russian detachment at Tsinkhedhin to abandon their base at Beresneff hill. The battle has been desperate on both sides. The result is not yet known."

Official dispatches given out dispose of the rumor that General Kuropatkin has retired from the Shakhe river, but taken in connection with the Associated Press Tsinkhetchen dispatch, show that operations of an important nature are in progress in the mountain region to the eastward. The movement was precipitated by the Russians, who last week sent out two divisions and occupied well advanced positions. The Japanese attacked these positions in force. The Russians retired slowly, fighting, and Thursday evening were driven within their fortified line. The latest dispatches prophesied heavy fighting on Friday.

General Kuropatkin in a dispatch dated Feb. 23 sends a report that 20 Japanese torpedo boats and a large warship are on their way to Vladivostok.

Tsinkhetchen, via Mukden, Feb. 25.—There was fighting along the whole line in this district. The Japanese, continuing their persistent and systematic advance, drove in the Russian vanguard and came in touch with Russian fortified positions. A stubborn combat is expected, the Japanese apparently intending to attempt to drive out the Russians and capture their redoubts. The Japanese are circling eastward.

General Engagement Expected.

Shenking, Manchuria, via Mukden, Feb. 25.—It is reported that the Japanese are closing in on the Russian east flank. As a result of this movement it is possible that there will be either a general engagement or at least a counter movement by the Russians along some part of the line, especially if the Japanese have returned to their original tactics of making flanking movements from the mountains.

For the past three weeks the Russians have suffered no material disturbance, with the exception of comparatively unimportant damage to the railroad and to a bridge near Kuanchia pass as the result of Japanese raids.

Reports of activity at Vladivostok in anticipation of an attack on that place by the Japanese are confirmed, but the town continues in its accustomed gayety, in which the civil and military elements participate. The channels of business continue there in their normal condition, notwithstanding the fact that the stringent patrol by the Japanese of the straits between the island of Shakhalin and the coast of Japan has completely interrupted the movements of shipping.

Political Revolt Spreading.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25.—The beginnings of a very dangerous movement have been observed among the peasantry of some of the southern provinces where revolutionary agitators are circulating reports that the emperor will on March 4 issue a manifesto providing for a general division of lands. A new allotment has been the dream of the Moujiks ever since emancipation; and, according to private reports, the stories have spread like wild fire and are implicitly believed. In the government of Tulia, a large proprietor went to his estate last week and found the peasants at work measuring off and staking their shares. In response to his demands for an explanation they told him of the coming manifesto. Refusing to listen to his declaration that the report was absurd, they would only say "We have heard the 'Little Father' has decided." When the proprietor asked what would become of him, they replied, "Oh, we will leave you the buildings and 40 acres."

Danger Sign in Rural Districts.

Once the peasantry become posessed of the idea that the emperor has willed a division of land it will be exceedingly difficult to disabuse their minds, and Agrarian troubles on a large scale are feared. The Moujiks are likely to turn upon the proprietors as they did several years ago in the provinces of Saratoff and Poltava, when almost complete anarchy reigned for some time.

Among the reservists agitators are spreading the story that the war is over. A case is cited which occurred a fortnight ago at Riazan, where 200 reservists who had been called in flatly told the officer they did not intend to serve, "The war is over" said the leader; "we know you simply want to make money out of a contract for feeding us. We will not serve," and off they marched. An instance is also given of reservists who left a train after they had been started for the front.

Private reports also leave no room for doubt that the strikes in the whole region below Moscow are almost entirely political in character. The situation generally in the south of Russia is generally becoming worse instead of better and contains many factors which are causing the authorities the greatest alarm. The possibility of the necessity for the dispatch of additional troops to the Caucasus is already being considered.

Another factor that is causing grave concern is the actual difficulty of transporting enough commissary supplies for feeding the army at the front. Those constantly increasing difficulties are strengthening the peace party.

Moscow, Feb. 24.—The reported arrest of Leonaird Andreff, Skitaletz and 15 other writers has no connection with the assassination of Grand Duke Sergius, but is believed to be connected with the general reform propaganda carried on in Moscow by the literary wing of the Liberal party.

GATHERING FOR A LYNCHING.

Governor Organizes Regiment to Protect Negro Prisoner.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 25.—Developments in the case of the assault by a negro on Miss Marsh, a young white woman, came thick and fast and the streets of Mississippi's capital city are crowded with men, while a provisional regiment hastily organized by Governor Vardaman will maintain order.

The police have arrested a negro named Stewart Johnson. His clothes were bloody and he bore other evidences of having been in a struggle. His mother and sister told conflicting stories in regard to the whereabouts of the negro at the time of the assault. His shoes were placed in the tracks where the assault was committed and they fitted exactly. The police have discovered a young negro named Jake Turnbull, about 14 years of age, who says he was on the other side of the street when the assault was committed. He was taken to the jail and identified the negro Johnson as the one who committed the assault. Last night crowds began to gather in the uptown business district and talk of lynching was freely indulged in.

At a mass meeting of citizens Governor Vardaman announced the appointment of Colonel R. J. Harding, former sheriff of the county, as the colonel of a regiment to be formed at once. A captain was named for each ward in the city, then in turn selecting the members of their company. Governor Vardaman addressed the meeting and called on all the people of the city, both black and white, to help hunt out the criminal.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Double Tragedy in Michigan Puzzles the Authorities.

Homer, Mich., Feb. 22.—Louis M. Hardy and wife, aged about 40 years, were found dead in bed last night. Each had been shot once in the head and once under the heart. The position of the bodies seems to deny the possibility of either the husband or wife having fired the fatal shots.

The dead couple had been known to have had frequent quarrels and the night previous the husband had gone to the theater, failing to take his wife The shooting is thought to have occurred about 4 a. m. A revolver was found lying between the two bodies outside the coverlet.

SQUAW SAVES VILLAGE.

Persuades Angry Redskins Not to Massacre the Residents.

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 25.—A band of 100 Cheyenne Indians from Seiling, in Western Oklahoma, marched down upon the town of Taloga, six miles south of Seiling, and for a time threatened to massacre the inhabitants of the town. They were finally induced to return to their reservation by Wilshusan, the Indian wife of Amos Chapman, an old Indian scout.

The cause of the trouble was the killing of Powder Face, an Indian of the tribe, by John Kimball, a deputy sheriff.

NAMES OF GRAND JURORS KEP TPROFOUND SECRET.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—The special grand jury ordered by Federal Judge Kohlsaat to investigate the alleged meat trust has been drawn. The law requires that the names of the members of the jury be spread on the records. This will not be done, however, until a few days before March 20, when the grand jury will meet, as it is desired to keep the names secret as long as possible. It is said that the government wishes to examine the record of each man.

AGAINST THE TRUST

Fight On Standard Oil Company Waged in Lower House of Congress.

CHARGES OF FRAUD ARE MADE

Representatives Scent Scandal in Item in Appropriation Bill for Rental for Building in New York Owned by Oil Corporation.

Washington, Feb. 25.—In the house of representatives the fight of many years waged against the appropriation of $130,000 for rental of the old New York custom house, resulted in a victory, Mr. Hemenway of Indiana, chairman of the committee on appropriations, being unable to muster sufficient strength to retain the provision in the bill. The opposition was led by Mr. Sulzer of New York, supported by Mr. Williams of Mississippi, the minority leader, both of whom denounced the expenditure as a public scandal and in the interest of the Standard Oil company, which it was alleged was behind the National City bank, the purchaser of the building from the government. Although the bank was alleged to have bought the property for $3,000,000, and to have credited the amount to the government, it developed that no title had passed to it and that in consequence it was paying no taxes to the state of New York. The failure of the government to give a deed was ascribed to be due to the influence of the Standard Oil company. The action in striking out the provision was on a strictly party vote.

The time of the senate was divided between the Swayne impeachment trial and the motion of Mr. Beveridge to appoint conferees on the joint statehood bill. In the Swayne case Messrs. Perkins, Clayton and Powers made arguments in behalf of the prosecution and Mr. Higgins responded in Judge Swayne's behalf, leaving Mr. Thurston still to speak for Judge Swayne and Messrs. De Armond and Palmer for the house.

It is the expectation of the senators who are managing the impeachment trial of Judge Swayne that an agreement will be made to take a vote on Monday.

Mr. Morgan antagonized the motion to appoint conferees on the statehood bill and held the floor in opposition when the senate adjourned for the day.

The effort of the Midvale Steel company to force an entrance into the armor plate market is said to be responsible for a resolution introduced in the house calling for an investigation into the practices of the so-called armor trust. The attorney general is requested to inform the house as to whether proceedings have been instituted against the armor plate concerns.

Pittsburg Club Wants to Join in the Inaugural March.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Washington has begun to assume holiday attire in honor of the approaching inaugural ceremonies. The Commercial club of Pittsburg has advised the inaugural committee of its desire to join the inaugural parade and the Virginia military institute cadets have withdrawn because dissatisfied with their place in line.

Additional Evidence In Mrs. Ross's Case Shows Foul Play.

Mont Clair, N. J., Feb. 25.—Additional evidence that Mrs. Hannah B. Ross, the wealthy recluse whose charred body was found in the ruins of her home, was murdered was afforded by the autopsy held, which showed that death had resulted from hemorrhage of the brain, apparently caused by a blow.

The police are making every effort to trace the missing coachman, who on entering Mrs. Ross's service gave the name of Robert Everett and an address which has since been found to be fictitious.

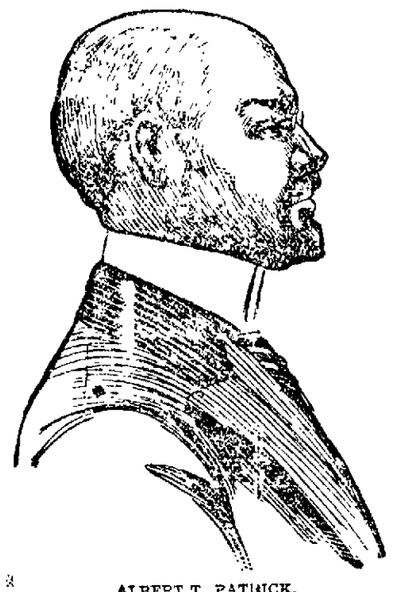
PATRICK'S CASE POSTPONED.

Lawyer Under Death Sentence Making Hard Struggle for Life.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—The court of appeals has postponed until March 14 hearing of the argument in the case of Albert T. Patrick, who is under sentence of death for the murder of William M. Rice a millionaire of New York city, in 1900. Patrick's appeal was stipulated for argument next Wednesday.



ALBERT T. PATRICK.

The application for further postponement was made on the ground of newly discovered evidence. This has special reference to Patrick's claim that the embalming process effects a congestion of the lungs similar to that produced by chloroform, with which Mr. Rice is alleged to have been murdered.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

Summary of Business Conditions Throughout the Country.

New York, Feb. 25.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade today says:

Better weather has greatly improved trade in many sections of the country, spring merchandise being distributed freely by jobbers, while retail business and mercantile collections are normal. Interior buyers are placing liberal orders in the large cities, and preparations for structural work are hurried. Manufacturing lines have made splendid progress since the opening of the year especially the various divisions of the steel industry, and textile mills are well engaged. Shops have ample spring business, but orders for fall delivery are delayed by the recent advance in prices that was necessitated by higher cost of production, particularly as to the raw material. In almost every branch of business there is confidence in active trade with the appearance of settled weather. Winter wheat is in good condition, but cotton planting will average much later than last year. Prices of commodities are still firm. Railway earnings for the month of February thus far were 6.2 per cent smaller than last year.

Progress is most pronounced in the iron and steel industry. A very liberal tonnage of pig iron has been purchased, indicating that confidence is increasing, and the business is well distributed, while quotations are fairly held, but not advanced as yet.

Steel mills are now running at nearer full capacity than at any recent date, orders coming forward continually. Railway companies seek all forms of equipment, particularly rolling stock and steel rails. There is enough of this business in sight to insure full activity for several months at the leading mills.

Leather is irregular owing to special sales at slightly lower prices, although list quotations are not altered.

After Repeated Wrangles With Her and Her Counsel Hearing Is Adjourned—She Would Not Tell Her Name Despite Strong Pressure.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—Smiling and thoroughly self-possessed, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick defied the authority of the United States as vested in Referee Remington in the bankruptcy court. J. P. Dawley, her attorney, at first stubbornly refused to allow Mrs. Chadwick to be sworn, though the court peremptorily ordered her to rise and take the oath. It was only after a conference that she finally took the witness stand. Even then she practically refused to answer all questions, practically the only statement of consequence obtained from her being one that she had no personal property in New York.

Mrs. Chadwick refused to answer most of the questions on the ground that what she said might tend to aid the prosecution of her criminal cases. Referee Remington found in her favor, although he insisted against her counsel's wishes in making her give a quasi explanation of her refusal

"My financial affairs are so closely allied with the case in the federal court that anything affecting the one must necessarily affect the other," said Mrs. Chadwick, and the referee declared that that explanation of her position was as admirably expressed as it could be.

"What they want is to get possession of our information," stoutly declared Attorney Dawley on behalf of Mrs. Chadwick. "They want to have a look at our hand. They are trying to ascertain our case. Now, if the government will tip off its hand, we might arrange the deal."

Counsel Makes Hard Fight.

Dawley frankly told the court that Mrs. Chadwick would be only following his advice in refusing to be sworn. He said he did not intend to be contemptuous or to be discourteous to the referee, but he demanded the protection which he said the constitution gave his client. Attorney Grossman, for Trustee Loeser, insisted on an examination, however, and Referee Remington finally decided that Mrs. Chadwick would have to be sworn and take the witness stand at last.

"We are reliably informed, and we have reason to believe that there is a large amount of property, including big sums of money, that ought to be in the hands of the trustee for the benefit of the creditors, but which are not," declared Grossman.

"Yes, but you must not turn the bankruptcy court into an instrument for prosecution," said Dawley. He declared that the trustee had seized all Mrs. Chadwick's private papers and turned over information to the United States attorney which had resulted in at least two, or probably three, additional indictments.

"That's the duty of every good citizen," said Referee Remington. "To give the authorities all information in our power." Despite Dawley objection and his irate declarations that Mrs. Chadwick was being unjustly and improperly imprisoned, Mrs. Chadwick was forced to take the stand and be sworn. This she did very gracefully, smiling pleasantly and cheerfully as the referee administered the oath.

"I want to do all I can to aid the trustee and help my creditors," announced the witness before any question had been asked. "I do not want to appear discourteous or disobliging, but you must not forget the circumstances that surround me."

Refuses to Give Her Name.

So insistent had been Dawley's objections and so hot had been the fight over the introduction of the bankruptcy testimony that an hour was consumed in getting the examination started. And then it struck a snag, the first of many, at the very first outset. Mrs. Chadwick refused to give her name. Another long wrangle resulted over this seemingly unimportant question. It was in vain that Grossman declared he had no designs of trapping the witness into an incriminating reply. Mrs. Chadwick simply refused to say that she was Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, and smilingly persisted in that course.

Referee Remington vainly appealed to her, explained to her, and almost threatened her. He went at length into just what her privilege was and just what amounted to contempt of court. Mrs. Chadwick was an interested listener to all he had to say, but his conversation moved her not a jot. Finally Remington grew a little exasperated at her cheerful indifference.

"Is this by your advice?" he sternly inquired of Dawley.

"I refuse to answer" was Dawley's reply. "Counsel can take care of himself," he added, significantly. "I am not under obligation to disclose to any one, not even a court, the nature of my professional advice to my client." The passage between Dawley and Remington left the air slightly tense and for a while an open rupture was imminent. The referee did not lose his temper, however, and the episode was allowed to pass.

Dawley continued to grow more and more acrimonious in his remarks to the court, however, and along at the close of a subsequent clash he frankly stated that he wished the court would commit Mrs. Chadwick to jail for contempt and get the thing off his mind. Remington took decided objection to this attitude and remarked if Dawley persisted in it there would be trouble.

The re-examination was a series of just such wrangles and disputes Mrs. Chadwick answered a few questions, but her answers were remarkably free from information. Finally the court and counsel on all sides agreed that the examination might just as well let off abruptly, because there was no hope of securing any information from the bankrupt. Accordingly, March 13 was set for a resumption of the hearing, with the understanding that Mrs. Chadwick would testify freely on that date if the criminal cases against her had been disposed of by that time.

Mrs. Chadwick paid $3 from her own funds for a carriage to convey her from the county jail to the bankruptcy court, a distance of one block. She did this after unsuccessfully attempting to compel the federal officials to furnish a carriage. On the return trip to the jail she walked.

River Steamer Big Kanawha Crushed by Gorge in Ohio River.

Maysville, Ky., Feb 25.—The heavy ice gorge in the Ohio river at this point was dislodged by a rise from the Kanawha river. Considerable damage was done by the ice

The steamer Big Kanawha was torn from her moorings and floated down with the ice. As she passed the ferryboat Lawrence she tore the outer guards off the ferryboat. A quarter of a mile further down the ice tore a large hole in the hull of the Big Kanawha, when she sank and the ice completely wrecked her. Captain Edward Williamson and the crew of the steamer had narrow escapes, several of the men being compelled to jump on moving ice in order to reach the shore. The steamer Tacoma was also badly damaged.

Damage Suit Against Game Warden Dangeleisen.

THE PLAINTIFF WANTS $1,000.

Claims He was a Prisoner for Six Hours and That There was No Cause for His Arrest—The Death of a Civil War Veteran.

Canton, Feb. 25.—Nicholas Huberty, of this city, has entered suit in common pleas court against Deputy State Game Warden Andrew Dangeleisen for $1,000 damages for alleged false arrest. Mr. Huberty, in his petition, alleges that Dangeleisen falsely and maliciously and without reasonable or probable cause, charged him before W. S. Spidle, a justice of the peace in Perry township, with having a ferret to catch rabbits. Plaintiff avers that he was deprived of his liberty for six hours and compelled to give bail and that on February 25, 1905, he was discharged. Plaintiff claims that he has been damaged in his reputation in the amount asked, for which he seeks judgment.

The members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of this city will give an entertainment on the evening of St. Patrick's day, March 17, in the Auditorium. The affair will be for the benefit of the Catholic orphans' home at Louisville. At a meeting Friday evening committees were appointed to look after the arrangements.

William C. Beatty died early Saturday morning at his home at 133 East Tenth street. The deceased was a civil war veteran and leaves a wife, father and three sisters. Funeral services will take place Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Burial in Massillon.

STOLE CHICKENS, WERE ARRESTED.

West Brookfield Young Men Planned a "Roast."

EACH FINED $11 AND COSTS.

They Appeared Before Squire Spidle Thursday Evening and Escaped the Severe Penalty by the Failure of the Prosecuting Witness to Appear.

Charles Sondregger and Cyrus Young, two young residents of Brookfield, were arrested and taken before Squire Spidle Thursday evening to answer to the charge of breaking into a hennery at the home of Jacob Kraft, near Brookfield, and stealing two chickens. The men appeared for trial but the prosecuting witness did not turn up, having agreed not to prosecute the case if the men paid for the damage to his property. In this manner Young and Sonndregger escaped more than a light sentence, being assessed the costs in the case, which amounted to $11 each.

The theft took place Sunday night. Mr. Kraft was awakened in the middle of the night by a confusion in his hennery. Hastily dressing he caught sight of Sonndregger and Young and gave chase, following them to a Brookfield saloon, where they were caught. An attempt was made to hush the matter but it is said the guilty parties became impudent and the affair was carried to Squire Spidle's court.

It is said that Sonndregger and Young are a part of a gang of young men who have been guilty of depredations of this nature before, stealing the chickens in order to hold "roasts" at some saloon or convenient gathering place. The residents of that section are greatly stirred over these acts and the next parties will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law, which means a penitentiary sentence if found guilty.

Mott and Bishop Fobler. During the day Wednesday and Thursday, Doctor Goucher, of Baltimore; S. Earl Taylor, of New York, returned missionaries from India; Spencer, of Japan, and Jones, of Korea, besides a number of the leading ministers and laymen of Ohio.

The Methodist churches are asked to appoint delegates from the Sunday school, the Epworth League, an additional layman to represent the church, beside the pastor. The Woman's Foreign and Home Societies are invited to send delegates, each accompanied with $1 registration fee, to the secretary at 220 West Fourth street, Cincinnati.

GIFT MADE BY MRS. M'KINLEY

Enlarged Photograph Given to State Hospital.

IN WILLIAM M'KINLEY HALL.

The Photograph is Three by Four Feet and is a Likeness of the Late William McKinley When He was President—Sugar Camp Opened for the First Time—1,398 Patients.

Mrs. William McKinley, of Canton, has presented an enlarged photograph of the late President to the Massillon state hospital, making Superintendent Eyman custodian of the gift, which has been placed in William McKinley hall. The photorgaph is three by four feet in dimensions and is a reproduction of the photograph so well known when Mr. McKinley was President. It has the deep lines that gradually furrowed his countenance after he left the governor's chair and assumed the burdensome duties of the Presidency with the trials of the Spanish war coming on. The gift was made unsolicited and the first intimation received that such a gift was to be made was the receipt of the beautiful photograph itself. Superintendent Eyman has had the photograph placed over the private box in the audience room of William McKinley hall. Here it is in plain view of all. It is about ten feet above the seats and from its commanding position apparently looks each person present in the face. A letter of thanks will be sent to Mrs. McKinley.

William McKinley hall is the new auditorium recently completed at the hospital. The room will seat fifteen hundred persons, has a well arranged stage with drop curtains, inclined floor with modern opera chairs and several private boxes extending from the gallery. The building occupies a center position among the many stately buildings and its front balcony and portico commands a view of the entire valley extending to the west of the grounds.

A sugar camp was opened in the grove east of the hospital grounds Thursday. There are about two hundred and fifty fine trees in the camp. This is the first year that the trees have been tapped. All the necessary appliances have been procured for handling the sap. Should there be a good yield of sap, there will be about one hundred and twenty-five pounds of sugar.

The trustees and Superintendent Eyman are well pleased with the new arrangements with respect to the heating system and the handling of coal. A new heating apparatus was installed last fall and has given the best of satisfaction this winter. The saving in hauling coal and the reduction in price received by buying direct from the mines has also been considerable. Over $1,500 was saved on coal last month in comparison with a like period last winter. In former years all coal was hauled from the city to the hospital by teams. It is now taken to the hospital over a switch built from the Wheeling & Lake Erie track.

There are 1,398 patients in the hospital at present as shown by the last monthly report. Thirty-four patients were admitted last month, two were discharged as recovered, five as improved and eighteen died. Of the thirty-four admitted, twenty-five were men and nine were women.

The base ball team is receiving some attention and the prospects are good that next year's team will be the equal of the former teams.

Bowling is the most interesting pastime at the hospital during the winter.
